A School lunch hall

(Please note that this descriptive task is not available for the 2012 entry)

Condensation slides its way down the window, leaving behind it a ribbon of smooth, murky darkness. The sheer suffocating heat and humidity inside suggests the number of drenched bodies seeking refuge from the relentless onslaught of rain. In one corner, a single teacher loses the battle to restrain a group of shouting children and is swamped in a wave of uniformed bodies. Buzzing with anticipation, their instincts triggered by the promise of food, the mass of children charges past him into the canteen. Dragging back some small measure of control, he finally manages to stem the flow and continues to thin out the crowd at a steadier pace with many jealous glances towards the table where several of his fellow teachers lounge, indulging in a few sweet, children-free minutes. As the room fills, the shouts, yells and vague discussion coming from the hoard of tatty teenagers rise to a pitch and volume that could shame a football crowd. Wanting to live up to their reputation, the children continue their barrage of sound, undeterred by the half-hearted efforts of their teachers. Finally, however, as the initial rush of eager bodies reduces, the disruption falls to a minimum and the children split off into groups. At the centre of one such gathering sits a rather plain girl putting up with the unwanted attention of several of her social superiors. She is clearly used to this type of bullying, and she continues her meal in silence. Finally bored with watching their comments bounce off the girl without effect, the group turn their attention to a table surrounded by an invisible force field apparently coming from its dozen or so occupants. This group seems to reject any lesser being that attempts to come within three feet of their sacred ground. This creates a ring of admirers who look up to the mixture of reputation and charisma within. Those teenagers within this bubble of admiration seem to have no intention of letting any others into the group. Enough gold and fake diamonds to replicate the entire crown jewels covers the same uniforms that seem to repel any similar attempt by any other pupil. One particular girl, smiling with all the dazzling intensity of a chat show host, is obviously a new addition to the group. Ecstatic at her place in this most sacred of circles, she looks down from the Mount Olympus of the dinner hall at the insignificant drones beneath her, attempting to display some of the haughty dignity of the established members of the gang. As the initial lure of the dinner hall lessens, several of the harder students decide to brave the weather outside and leave the overcrowded, damp stuffiness to those willing to endure it for its relative comfort and the knowledge that hours spent on hair will not have been in vain. Suddenly a loud crash echoes around the hall bringing most of the children out of their relaxed stupor. For once the whole student body is united in hilarity, all eagerly scanning the three-hundred or more people for the guilty party. The culprit (a minute, year seven boy) stands next to the offending pile of broken china and, as several of the older students begin to whoop, proceeds to flush a deep red as he prays for an escape from the blinding spotlight. Unfortunately, the hole in the ground fails to appear for him as it has failed so many others in similar situations and he is left at the mercy of hundreds of delighted teenagers. Finally, the yells subside, quelled by steely glances from several of the teachers, and they are replaced by the ominous tinny chime of the bell, forcing all the children out into the merciless rain.

An Immigrant's
Dream for a Better Life
By David Gonzalez Jan. 21, 2015
Jan. 21, 2015

The pictures of Blanca's life in California look ordinary: relaxing with her parents on the banks of a river, dressed up for her quinceañera, studying at school, moving into her first off-campus apartment. Yet to her — and to thousands of other immigrants whose parents brought them to this country without authorization — the pictures represent lives that reach for the future, aware of the obstacles that could one day take it all away.

The joy that advocates felt last November when President Obama announced broader initiatives to grant legal status to children and parents who are here without authorization has now turned to fear. Republicans in Congress have announced that they plan to undo the president's executive actions. Those moves have already prompted debate and protests where the issues will be put into high relief.

"That's a great way to start the conversation, but it becomes the theater of politics," said Mark Abramson, a photographer who has been documenting Blanca and her family since 2013. "The children start to be seen as lone wolves, but what about the parents that brought them here? I wanted to do a project that encompassed the students in an intimate way, but also the parents, since I don't think that was being addressed."

The Uniqueness of the Empire State Building

According to the records in history, the United States was the very first country in the world to build so-called skyscrapers. The outstanding technology that is used in raising building which seemed to reach the sky has improved a lot through the years, with skyscrapers of all configurations and shapes. Among all of these skyscrapers, there is one which has been considered as iconic, which, despite being built about a century ago, is still considered as one of the symbols of America. This building is the Empire State Building

This skyscraper of a building has 102 floors, with a height of 1454 feet. It is located in Manhattan, occupying an area of about 208,879 m2. Quite surprisingly, the building was only raised in a period of 410 days, with about 3,400 construction workers focused on it. What is even more surprising is that it also did not cost much, covering everything, including the cost of the land, with the total project price that is just half that the approximate amount. The overall cost of the entire project is not really much for a huge building that was built during those times.

The building was built in an architectural and art deco style. This was common in the America back In the 1930s. The Empire State Building was the perfect representation of such style, from its symmetrical patterns, geometric forms, including contrasted, vivid colors. Possibly the most amazing aspect of the building is its antenna, having an unusual shape. It does not serve as a décor, but also protects the entire building, and at the same time, acting as a lightning rod, as every year, it is hit by lightning about 23 times. Indeed, the Empire State Building is an outstanding example of engineering genius, architectural style, as well as the spirit of the American 1930's era.

Rooms -Creating An Atmosphere

Before you start, read the 'How To Write Descriptive Essays' sheets.

Read the passage below. Some words have been missed out where the gaps are. Think about the atmosphere the writer is trying to create. Fill in the gaps with appropriate describing words.

The Waiting Room

The waiting room was a dismal place. The fireplace stood offering no welcome. A row of chairs lined the walls.

One lamp tried unsuccessfully to add some brightness to the atmosphere. A table in the centre of a carpet offered a pile of magazines.

A mother with her son sat in the corner, listening to the ticking of the clock, which hung over the doorway.

Create an atmosphere, using any of these rooms:

- A prison cell
- A cabin on a ship
- A busy bar in a pub
- A deserted cellar
- A hotel bedroom in Venice (or anywhere exotic)

The atmosphere can be lively, threatening, exciting, relaxing or anything you choose. You can describe a room you know well or invent an imaginary one. Remember to use descriptive words to show your reader rather than tell them what the atmosphere is like.

Essay 1 Why Students Should Eat Breakfast Every Day

A lot of people, especially young people, go through the day without having breakfast. Many people believe that it is not necessary, or they say that they don't have time for that, and begin their day with no meal. I believe that everyone should eat breakfast before going to their activities. The purpose of this paper is to show the importance of breakfast, especially for students. THESIS STATEMENT

The first reason why you should eat breakfast before going to school is for your health. When you skip breakfast and go to school, you are looking for a disease because it's not healthy to have an empty stomach all day long. It's very important to have a meal and not let your stomach work empty. All you are going to get is gastritis and a lot of problems with your health if you don't eat breakfast.

Another reason for eating breakfast is because you need food for to do well in your classes. You body and your brain are not going to function as good as they could because you have no energy and no strength. When you try to learn something and have nothing in your stomach, you are going to have a lot of trouble succeeding. A lot of people think that they should not eat because they are going to feel tired, but that's not true. Breakfast is not a very big meal, and on the contrary, you're going to feel tired if you don't have breakfast because you have spent the entire previous night without food.

The last reason to have breakfast every day is because you can avoid diseases if you eat some breakfast in the morning. If you don't eat, you are going to get sick, and these diseases will have a stronger effect on you because you're going to get sick easier than people who have breakfast every day.

You have to realize that breakfast is the most important meal of the day, and you cannot skip it without consequences for your health, your school and your defense mechanism. It is better to wake up earlier and have a good breakfast than run to school
