English setter puppies for sale indiana.

Welcome to Great Lakes English Setters. Our kennel was founded with the aim of producing quality English setters with drive and desire. In addition to intelligence and style, natural instinct is the main ingredient of our farms. Located in northwestern Indiana, we have access to pheasant, quail and bush in managed game bird areas. We are within easy reach of some of the best rusty grouse covers in Michigan's national forests. From aspen stands to cedar swamps, Mother Nature has been generous to the old ruff and to our research. Our Setter Foundation, Grouse Champion Cant Go Wrong a.k.a. Lucky gave me the confidence to compete in the field tests. CGW was bred sparingly, producing more horse, Walking, NSTRA and Grouse test contender specimens. The year 2021, will mark an ever-thought-out milestone of two decades ago, 6 generations of bird dogs from our setter Can't Go Wrong. Line breeding has been our philosophy from the very beginning. Over the years, the breeding and production of hunting dogs with the attributes of a high caliber specimen. Across the country, our setters have proven to be athletes. Spanning all the way west to Washington for the blue grouse and hangarian ridge. Making their way south on Texas quail, north for the on-sharp prairies, and east for the rusty grouse and the wooden cock. Dedicated to the production of bird dogs with grit, hunting dogs with style, and field test winners who have never disappointed. We can't wait to help you pursue that special English setter, that puppy who keeps you on the edge, the one who can't go wrong. Thank you. Great Lakes English Setters The English Setters returns; It is a breed of dogs that have been particularly extant since the nineteenth century. Athletics and endurance are some of the strengths of the race. Famous for its use as a gun dog, this breed is desirable among dog owners who are looking for a fairly obedient dog that has a very good ethical work. Learn more about our Setter Puppies for sale below! The English setter comes in several colors; the common ones are Blue Belton, Orange Belton, Habs, Liver Belton, Lemon Belton, Chestnut Belton. British Setters can vary significantly in their look depending on whether they are a British setter in show-bred or field bred style. The body-bred has a smaller cape and a better body construction than the history of Breed.The name that has been given to this breed strongly suggests about its history, the setting dates back to when hunting was a great activity among humans. The breed must have been around for a long time; the results showed evidence similar to the breed from the past. A handwriting that was undefeated in 1576, written by Dr. Johannes Caius origin of speculation on the history of the dog. Writing seemed particularly a pointer to the existence of the Blue Belton. The British Setters were used for game and bird hunting especially, having a good sense of smell. They're frozen frozen frozen, prey and wait for orders from their owners. Current setters should their appearance to Edward Laverack and R. Purcell Llewellyn, respectively. The Laverack is the first to develop the strain for the breed. Llewellyn developed the effort to him much later through with the best of the Laverack dogs. The temperament might come as a surprise to many that a powerful hunting dog may be necessary for affection; Its natural demeanor shows the independence and the ability to effectively handle situations. However, the English Setter is a dog that loves attention and affection. He very playful; and funny side of it. It's important to keep the English setter physically active; A lack of exercise can lead to frustration. Frustrated dogs make a mess that excess energy exerts mostly in destructive activities. Being a good friend is also one of the good things of the English setters. Similar to most of the dogs may become aggressive if not properly cared for and ignored. However, they can be Japanese and lively when given enough care. The English setter is good for children, it is friendly towards them. Environment The English Setter thrives in large spaces. They are very active dogs who love to exercise a great deal; The race is one of their favorite things. You do not want to cramp this breed in a small space. A family atmosphere will be good for the English Setter; He loves attention and plenty of care can come from a family is ideal for the welfare of the dog. Exercise The English setter is an energetic dog that requires a lot of exercise. The ideal requirement to keep a dog so dissipated energy is a great space. The owners of the breed of dog should be prepared for a lot of jogging and mental exercises to keep the dog calm as possible when the most is at home. GOOMING is required careful carotelo. A great deal of it. They have a lot of hair in specific areas; The legs and tail, and being a very active dog, grooming could be quite tedious. The dog's coat should be combed and brushed every day, it's important that you can get all the dirt hidden inside the dog? Fur. You should pay special attention so that the attacks by ticks and other dangerous parasites can be scrubbed. The English Setter is a shaggy stray dog who is energetic, so grooming should be a serious business.
