Roselyn Sanchez (Grand Hotel, "Devious Maids") will shoot her debut film, "Diario: Mujer y Cafe", in Puerto Rico this summer, said producer Jolene Rodriguez, president of Broken English Prods. Latinx's sister sales division, Grandave Intl., will present the comedy at EFM, along with the first production of Broken English, Omar Chaparro and the Venice 2020 pickup "My Tender Matador" from Chile Rodrigo Sepulveda. Best known for her roles in the ABC series "Grand Hotel" and "Devious Maids", the Puerto Rican-born actress-model-singer directed the award-winning short film "Sátos" and the stars of the next drama, "Gringa." "Women and Cafe" follows four best friends, once known as the Fab Four in high school, who gather for an adventure-filled trip to Puerto Rico. Equitas Puerto Rico will be the on-site production company. Stanley Preschutti of Grandave Capital and Frank Mayor of Cinevision Global are the executive producers. The film will take advantage of Puerto Rico's tax incentives. The Caribbean island, an unincorporated territory of the United States, offers producers a 40% transferable tax credit on all local expenses and a 20% tax credit on all payments to non-resident talent, including producers, writers, actors and even stunt doubles. "I've been a fan of Roselyn for a long time, it's an honor to work with her on her directing debut", Rodriguez said. "Putting women in front and behind the camera is something I've always advocated. Opening the door to more opportunities for Roselyn and other directors", he added. Broken English is part of the entertainment finance company Grandave Capital (GC), launched last year by film financier Preschutti, which has undertaken projects as a third-party investor and invested generously in its nascent Latinx production line. GC is allocating about $20 million to up to four English Broccato projects a year with budgets ranging from $1.5 million to $8 million. Despite some exciting action, the plot and dialogue are simply too horny. Long-time friends and colleagues Rorke and Dave assemble their team of experts to save an undercover agent (Sanchez) who was kidnapped by an American central band. After decimating the villains and saving the hostage, it becomes clear that the gang is tied to a fierce Czech terrorist (Cottle) who is working with a well-known arms dealer Christo (Veadov) to attack America in a way that makes it look like "September 11 a walk in the park". While the clock sucks, the Seals travel around the world and unpack all kinds of unbridled military gadgets to stop the nefarious plan. Continue reading: Act Of Valour Review 'Act of Valor' brings the public deep into the secretive world of a highly trained warrior group. The rescue of a kidnapped CIA agent leads to the discovery of a deadly terrorist plan against the United States. A SEAL team is sent into a world-wide manhunt for people behind the plot. Bandito Platoon's brave men must balance their commitment to their homeland, team and their families, because they are fighting to stop a coordinated attack that could kill and hurt thousands of American civilians. Act Of Valor TrailerPuerto Rican songwriter, actress, model and producer of film and television Roselyn Sanchez leaves Porta Via a Beverly Hills and then crosses a very busy roadRoselyn Sanchez and Eric Winter - Roselyn Sanchez and Eric Winter Glendale, California - Eva Longbrooria Parker appointed honorary president for 'The Rally for Kids With Cancer' Scavenger Cup on Tuesday 31 March And yes, its wit borders on the buffoonish, with the so regressive stick that the Three Stooges are late barking to its simplicity. True, Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson and Roselyn Sanchez doAttractive couple on the screen, and littlePettis is a great substitute for Shirley Temple, but as a trio, they don't inspire much confidence at the box office. So why is the Disney-family-football fantasy "The Game Plan" so effective? Even the most suspicious of cinephiles could find themselves boiling over the story of a selfish professional quarterback and the toy of a daughter he has never met.As a member of the Boston Rebels, Joe Kingman (Johnson) is fixated on two things: winning and Elvis. His elegant bachelor's apartment in Beantown is full of relics, both yours and the King's, and he loves his millionaire athlete lifestyle. One day, they knock on the door. She's a little girl named Peyton, and she says Joe's her father. Caught off guard, the QB contacts its agent, Stella Peck (Kyra Sedgwick), and begs her to clean up the mess. A little look back confirms the paternity â at least for the moment â and Joe finds himself juggling between the demands of the playoffs, the ribs of his teammates and the needs of his sudden offspring. When he expresses an interest in ballet studies, Joe sends the child to Monique Vasquez's (Sanchez) elite school. Yet the newly found paternity is taking its toll, and only Joe's luck, the league game is just around the corner.Continue reading: The Game Plan ReviewBy byline1.gifHere's a final nominee for the worst photo of the year, coming just a few weeks after director Marcos Siega's other failure, "Pretty Persuasion".This time Siega shares the blame with star Nick Cannon, whose impressive performance has made it possible "Drumline" of 2002 such a surprise success. Now Cannon co-produces and co-writes the "story" for "Underclassman", a sort of imitation of the fifth category "Beverly Hills Cop."Cannon plays Three Stokes, a smart young black cop who goes undercover in a white high school to track down a murderer. Of course, the behavior of Three gets him kicking out of force and so he has to finish the job alone.Continue reading: Underclassman ReviewBy Rob BlackwelderGuided entirely by boring clichés, vulgar stereotypes, squalid and low eyebrow raunch-as-comedy gags, and the degrading, almost minstrel-show antics of Cuba Gooding Jr., "The Boat Trip" is a movie in Gay theme aimed exclusively at straight stupid.The concocted plot finds Gooding and John Belushi-wannabe Horatio Sanz ("Saturday Night Live") trapped aboard a cruise ship full of gay men for a week-long trip, and screenwriter-director M Nathan (who wrote the Farrelly Brothers' "Kingpin") finds endless excuses to behave from or Comic strip sex to score goals with the few women on board.Good luck for the ship's dance instructor (Roselyn Sanchez) â a smoky Latina who walks around wearing transparent linen tops and three kilos of eye shaps âl donât care about makeup, I donât care about what I wear.â ugly, loutish Sanz has hobbies for a brain dead doll (Playboy Playmate Victoriaby the "Swedish suntanning team" who was rescued from a shipwreck along with a dozen other swimsuit models. Inexplicably, she also has the cool ones for him - not because there's anything attractive about him, but because the director is clearly more interested in any excuse for bug-eyed boobs than he is in something remotely similar story or humor.
