[for Summer 2020] Loafer Creek Group Campground September 19, 2020 Submitted by Bob Sydnor (AERC, GCTC member) Regarding the fate of Loafer Creek Equestrian Campground within the Lake Oroville State Recreation Area. We were unsure if the North Complex Fire in Butte County could burn this horse field. The good news (attempts) as of September 18, is that Loafer Creek Horse Campground has been spared. About a third of the public field. Imagined is the map of the perimeter of the fire from 9/18/2020. But that can change quickly, so stay tuned. OROVILLE, Calif. - Bear fire burned a significant portion of the shore of Lake Oroville, but the damage along the lake was extensive. It will remain closed until evacuation orders along all parts of the lake are lifted. Lake Oroville, in total, has a coastline of about 168 miles. Over 50% of the recreational area along the lake, which is a large portion of the cavalry, burned during the fire of the bear. Most of what has been burned is vegetation, but some of the recreational facilities in the Loafer Creek area have suffered minor damage, including the campsite. Other areas are still being assessed, as are risk trees in many areas. Many of these still need to be clarified. Lake Oroville is still closed to the public at this time. There are portions of the lake, especially the north fork, the South and the central fork that are within those mandatory evacuation zones. The rest of the lake included the main body are in the superintendent Northern Buttes District, Parks States of California. He says as soon as evacuation orders are raised on all the areas of the lake, then the lake will be able to open to the public. Even the boat of the house burned during the fire of the boat has not been attributed to the fire of the boat has not been attributed to the fire of the boat of the boat has not been attributed to the fire of the boat of the boat of the boat has not been attributed to the fire of the boat has not been attributed to the fire of the boat has not been attributed to the fire of the boat has not been attributed to the fire of the boat of the boat has not been attributed to the fire of the boat has not will soon investigate to see if it has influenced water quality. (Jake Hutchison/Enterprise-Record) The extended launch is also relatively new, having been completed in the spring of 2021. It provides six launch lanes for a length of 702 feet. The extension will increase the pitch to 799 feet. A"The Loafer Point Stage II property is adjacent to a Loafer Creek Day Use and Camping recreation area, completing a full-service recreational destination with trails, camping, boating and marina shop nearby. In addition, immediate access to the open waters of Lake Oroville makes Loafer Point a popular launch site, the newsletter says. Construction has already started at launch with excavators and bulldozers preparing for expansion. Many of the roads near the launch, as well as the Loafer Creek campsite and access ramps have been blocked and barricaded, mainly because of the distance between the edge of the ramps and the water itself. "Visitors and nearby residents are reminded to be aware of construction equipment and vehicles, including those coming in and out of Oro-Quin's Loafer Creek Recreation Area "City Highway", the newsletter said. Andrew Bambauer, Senior Engineer with DWR's Oroville Field Division, said construction should continue through the fall and winter, in an effort to lower the ramp as much as possible before the winter rains raise the water level. Other projects The newsletter went on to explain the project for the Palermo Tunnel suction structure.
