Perlite insulation data sheet

DESCRIPTION

Mineral Wool Pipe Insulation is a precision cut pipe covering composed of high density mineral wool. It is produced in the form of two half cylinders and can be supplied either plain, with an all service jacket (ASJ) or with a foil scrim kraft (FSK) type facing. Mineral wool pipe insulation is available in three foot lengths in sizes from 1/2º IPS through 20º IPS and wall thicknesses from 1º to 4º. Sizes over 20º IPS are available in curved segments.

USES

Mineral Wool Pipe Insulation can be used in a wide range of applications for hot and cold piping ranging from -120° to 1200°F (-50° to 650°C) making it ideal for use within:

- · High temperature industrial process plants, power stations, petrochemical complexes, etc. for steam and
- process pipework · Commercial hot/cold water
- · Refrigerated water and similar areas

ADVANTAGES

Easy Fabrication - Only a knife needed for the most intricate shapes. Good Compressive Strength - Mineral Wool resists compression and mechanical damage. PERFORMANCE

HEAT UP SCHEDULE

The binder used in the pipe-sections is organic, and we recommend the heat-up procedure below for insulation with operating temperatures from 350°F to 1200°F. During commissioning, the inner part of the resin material will start a controlled decomposition when the internal temperature of the insulation exceeds 480°F (250°C). Provide adequate ventilation to preven
