We saw the signs that Android TV could come out of the shadow of Chromecast throughout the year. The software has been popped up on new devices, such as ARTV and NVIDIA second-generated Shield TV and allows you to store new DVR Over-the-Air solutions such as Tabble Engine and e Even Google seemed to give more love to his residence platform known not known, announcing plans to integrate Google TV Android Assistant and overhaul the interface. But after you install Android 8.0 on a Nexus Oreo player this week, I'm not sure a return of Android TV is imminent. The new software is a casino on the threeyear streaming box of Google, and is missing several capabilities that Google has been presented to its developer conference I / O in May. Meanwhile, there has been little evidence of new streaming boxes to transport the platform forward, and it's unclear if the existing ones as the shield will be updated Oreo anytime soon. NVIDIA SHIELD TV (2017) Maybe I was going to express these concerns prematurely, and some great revelations are imminent with new hardware Android TV and improved software. However, it is difficult to see how it happens with the state is in this Android TV and improved software. allows each app to have their own line, or  $\tilde{A} \notin \hat{a}$ ,  $\neg A$  Channel,  $\tilde{A} \notin \neg$  where can recommend movies and shows to watch. Those apps can also feed in a row "watch Nexta  $\notin \hat{a}$   $\neg$  to catch new episodes of programs previously watched. The layout is a nod of the guide based on the grid which is located on a cable box, and an attempt to do browsing through the app streaming semplice. But much more at this time, Oreo Android TV lacks many capabilities that Google has shown a few months ago. the clock the next line is empty, for example, because © shows Aren Add to watch the next error. the integration of the screen to the previously announced non Netflix home screen is here yet again ... even though the company says it's still working on it - and video thumbnails aren aren is appearing on channels like Google Play Movies & TV. Jared Newman / Techhive Attempts to fill King tail "Watch Nexta â ¢ went nowhere. Google Assistant is also a no-show, so you can not cast directly to video from Netflix or YouTube with voice commands, check the Smart Home devices, or access voice skills of third parties. The search result screen is the same as it has been in previous versions of Android TV. (Google said in January that Assistant will arrive on TV Androida ¢ â ¬ "Including previous versions - in Å ¢ â, ¬Å months," which looks comfortable not committed in sentiment judgment.) ROKU Premiere + also the operation of VEORE basis of Android 8.0 on the Nexus player unpleasantness. The pales device and delays at each step and flashes a blank screen every time he touches the remote control after waking up the device from standby. And when you press the voice search button on the remote, the device constantly requires a few seconds to produce any response on the screen. In addition, Sony's Crackleà ¢ â ¬ "One of the first streaming app to support Android TVA ¢ â ¬ "One of the first streaming app to support Android TVA ¢ â ¬ "One of the first streaming app to support Android TVA ¢ a ¬ "One of the first stream Google Google Assistant will allow the video to launch voice, every time it comes. PIXEL PLAYER, where are you? Judging Oreo Android 8.0 for its performance on a streaming box of three years could be tough, but right now the nexus player is the only device that supports the new software. For developers who want to optimize their app for Android 8.0, this is the experience that they had. The obvious solution on Google would be to release a new Halo device to Android TV, a player à ¢ ¬Ã ¢ â, ¬ If you do it. Imagine, for example, a streaming sub- \$ 100 box with HDR 4K video support, a voice remote control for Google Assistantà ¢ â, ¬ If you do it. Google could also group a USB TV tuner to show the integration of the Android TV on the map for consumers. But so far. There have been few evidence that Google will do it His time operating system with new hardware. A report in May from cable cutters News said that Google was working on a new streaming player, but the site later supported this claim, saying that the device could instead be another offer third parts similar to MI Xiaomi box. (The MI box, by the way, arrived at the end of 2016 without fanfare from Google, it was only sold in Walmart stores and is not even running the second version dell'Android as of this writing.) Other recent reports on Googleâ ¢ â ¬ the next hardware plans have not mentioned the Android TV. Jared Newman / Techhive Android 8.0 features like Watch the next need to APP Maker support. Looking out to other vendors, the future for Android 8.0 Oreo become even murkier. Google recently named Sony and Sharp among devices or update Android 8.0 devices Oreo end of the year, so it's possible we'll see new or existing television smart. Last software in advance. But NVIDIA, which until now has led the set-top Top Android on your back with TV Shield by \$ 200, it was conspicuously absent from that list. Throtroid of TV time on a certain level, fretting about the state of the Android TV's academic. Google said that the platform sees 500,000 device activations per month, in part because of the company deals with intelligent television manufacturers such as Sony and Overseas Pay-TV operators such as KDDI in Japan. the app ecosystem for Android TV also has an unusual symbiotic relationship with TV Amazon Fire TV, which runs a modified version of Android TV is somewhat healthy way. But à ¢ â,¬Å Somewhat Sanoa ¢ â ¬ "It may not be what Google is aiming for, especially since © Chromecasts loses its competitive advantage among consumers. According to a recent Parks Associates report, Chromecasts loses its competitive advantage among consumers. consumers are starting to vote for the correct remote controls and interfaces on the phone-as-remote screen approach for Chromecasts, which in turn means that Google is losing the turf in the battle for the connected home. the TV could be the solution, but it's not clear whether Google will start to treat it that way.
